Figure 11: Plotting the estimated slopes for the substitution method and the LMMC model against eachother having the variance of individual specimens set to high. The vertical and horizontal lines correspond to the true value of the slope.